When the Earth Reeled Like a Drunkard

The area around Tucson offers good viewing of the stars and other celestial bodies. So on the warm summer nights my dad, brothers and I like to spend time gazing into space. Sometimes, for the uncommon events, we like to gaze on cold winter nights. The main questions, from Dad of course, are short but deep: What? Why? When? How?

Some of the best nights of wonder were the disappointing ones while watching Haley's Comet and the glorious ones while watching Hale-Bopp Comet in early 1997. Meteor showers, especially the ones that trail the comets are very intriguing also. These signs and wonders are nothing short of sparks, to trigger the imagination. Then again, while watching, I've come to the understanding that comets are supposed to trigger change. As I see it: that's what they were created for, that's their job.

Reverend Dad, being a student of the Bible, usually answers all questions with biblical reasoning. After which he challenges us to expand on his answers. His answers are simple and finite. For example: I ask, how do you explain the existence of stars and space?

He always replied to the effect that: Several places in the Bible it says that God made the heavens and the earth. In the books of Genesis, 1 Chronicles, Nehemiah, Psalms, Isaiah, Jeremiah and 2 Corinthians it is stated that God made it all. Dad relies on the premise that the Bible is either: 100% true or it's a lie.

Other such background information can prove the basis for all existence, the differences being in man's ability to understand.

Gen 1:1 - In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

John 1:1 - In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

2 - The same was in the beginning with God.

10 - He (Jesus) was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

Heb. 13:8 - Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and forever. Important things to remember, as we proceed.

Jesus was in the beginning and He never changes. Therefore, His Word, methods and systems don't change either. He created everything and regardless of its size, make-up or function it is repeated over and over. An example is seen every year: seedtime and harvest, seedtime and harvest; repeat, repeat, God never changes.

God doesn't need to change, His methods are flawless in every phase of the universe whether visible or in visible.

He is constantly creating new stars and new galaxies. Our bigger and better telescopes and the Hubble Space telescope are constantly proving and re-proving the expansion of space.

John 14:2 - In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. (See Illustration 1 – Thanks to the Hubble pictures on the web.)

The new stars and solar systems, as seen through telescopes, that I have been shown as “places” or “mansions,” are the mansions that God is preparing. Scientists are just now seeing other stars with other solar systems around them. God is preparing other planets similar to earth. There is no reason to believe differently, especially when you realize the fact that God never changes. The procedure is the same, just as seedtime and harvest is the same year after year; repeat, repeat, repeat.

One last vision or, for you, reasoning: In the Bible it states what the believers of Jesus have:

“Gal. 3:14 - That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ; that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.”

Add to this the main promise or blessing that God gave Abraham:

“Gen. 26:4 - And I will make thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; . . . ”

If we combine these facts from the scriptures and the modern day exploration of space, we can prove the scriptures to be not only a history of Gods people, but also a proven history of the universe. If all of those, who believe in Jesus, are/were to inherit all the blessings of Abraham (Gal. 3:14), then they would all have descendants as numerous as the stars (Gen. 26:4), the main promise. This is why He goes to prepare a place for us; more stars and more planets and more mansions. A place for His sons to rule the new subjects that worships Him.

As I said, Dad’s favorite saying is: “The Bible is either 100% true or it is a lie.” Take for example: If human body that is 99.999% perfect except it has one little cancer cell (the .001%); the body will prove to be 100% sick. The Bible is 100% true or it will prove to be a lie; therefore the answers it reveals are true. That is why Dad relies on the scriptures for his answers. One of my favorite teachers is my dad. Dad’s favorite teacher is the Holy Spirit, the counselor or teacher that Jesus promised to send.

Where Did You Get Your Information?

Trying to look at the whole universe as most scientist appear to be doing, would be like comparing someone trying to get a perspective of the whole forest by putting his nose to bark of an individual tree. It can't be done. We only rubbed our noses on the surface of the universe issue. Hubble lets us look around the tree.

Very few mysteries are revealed in books written by scientist that still think the earth is flat or that believe in the glacier theory. History books are full of mistakes and wrongful theories pasted down through the years. Mysteries are revealed when someone influenced, by the Holy Spirit writes books, for he is the creator and teacher of all things.

All answers are usually right in front of us. We just have to take the step of faith and believe what we are told. (Mat. 10:26 - "Therefore do not fear them. For there is nothing covered that will not be revealed, and hidden that will not be known.)

An example is: "The world is flat." If no one ever took that step to "see and prove," the world would still be flat, to most scientists. If they only listened to voices of the past, the world would still be thought of as flat.

A New Lesson in Comets

Comets are more than nature's space toy for the solar system. Comets are God's "agitators." They keep life, in the solar systems, from becoming/remaining dormant. Comets influence space like the electron influences a molecule. Just watch the action of an electron. I would but, my electronic microscope is on the fritz. (See Illustration – 2.)

I say all this to establish a background for my answers and explanations. Answers are simple to those that ask the right questions. Asking the right person is usually the most complicated part of the procedure. It is said that all knowledge comes from God. As I've previously stated, God's Spirit (who is given to us) is called Teacher or Counselor, among other things.

Many mysteries can be unveiled just by discovering the wonders of a simple magnet or magnet energies of sunlight. These wonders can unfold the mysteries of space. God repeats His self; therefore by relating the proper visual cause and effect, we can see the cause and effect of the mysteries of space. God created everything, and regardless of its size, His methods are repeated over and over. "The 'drawing power' of light will be the power of the future." The power of comets could also be a power of the future.

Comets Do Not Have Tails

After watching and asking about our recent visitors from deep space, I have come to the conclusions that: Comets do not have tails as far as one like we might think. The fuzzy matter around them is a charge of matter unknown to our ability to measure or analyze. They have a fuzzy matter around them but they do not have a tail of moisture. In the first place a tail of moisture, from an ice ball, would not light up on the backside of a comet away from the Sun.

What is thought of as a tail is actually a negative energy that glows with or without the Sun. However, with our eyes we only see what has been commonly referred to as a tail. In actuality the weaker energy that surrounds a comet is neutralized by an over powerful suns positive energy. (See Illustration - 4.)

On Earth we see negative shadows. The sunlight's positive energy is blocked, by matter, and forms a negative shadow. The comet's negative energy forms a positive shadow, because it acts opposite that of an Earthy "negative shadow."

Visualize the comet as a large dandelion ready to seed. At the outside of the dead dandelion the substance gets finer or thinner. In the center, the material that we are comparing to a dandelion is a more solid texture. So it is with the comet. Without the sun's light the comet has a dead dandelion like appearance, one that has gone to seed.

Only main mass and the positive type of shadow behind the main mass are visible to the human eye, because of the Sun's effects on the weakened comet's material that is subject to the Sun's overpowering energy. The weakened mass on the front and sides of its glow is diminished or neutralized by the Sun's light.

The opposite being true; then the Sun would react the same way, if a larger anti-matter star came close to our solar system. It would diminish the flames on the front and sides, closes the "cold star." I'm speaking of an overpowering "cold star," that would neutralize the heat on the front and sides of the Sun. A photo would pick up the flame or heat energy as it is expelled from the main body and it too would appear as a dandelion with only the seed pedals on the backside or opposite the "cold star" forming what would appear to be a tail.

Visualize a campfire. It is 20 degrees below zero. A cold wind is blowing from the West. The fire and the Eastside of the fire are warm. The cold wind being compared to the anti-matter from a "cold" star or an extremely large comet, the fire being our Sun, the heat is forced to the backside of the fire.

Now, visualize the reverse. It is 112 degrees on a warm Tucson day. Visualize a tall block of ice. A hot Tucson wind is blowing from the West. The ice and the Eastside of the ice are cold. With the ice being the energy of the comet's anti-matter, the warm solar wind being the Sun's energy. Get the picture?

The thinner material, on the outer areas of the comet, shows up on the backside of the comet as a positive appearing tail, always opposite the sun. The fuzzy material, in the outer areas of the dead dandelion (or comet), is still there but we don't see it because of our visual limitations. This is another method to visualize my thoughts, but inaccurate in that the "tail" is a solid negative substance having its own power. (It lights up.) What looks like a tail is visible because it is not affected by the Sun's opposite and more powerful energy. It is protected by the main mass of the comet. Therefore: It has to be an anti-matter or cold energy.

Comets have positive looking shadows because of the material, they are made up of for lack of a better word, and I call it anti-matter. Positive shadows react differently than negative shadows do, just as anti-matter reacts different than matter.

I'll try to explain by using simple examples that our senses can relate to:

1. Positive energy is represented as heat.
2. The energy of a star is a fiery heat.
3. The energy of heat can be seen as flame.

4. The negative energy of the anti-matter of a comet is represented as icy cold, as in an ice ball.
5. The energy of a comet is icy cold.
6. The energy of cold can be seen as a comet's "tail or shadow."

Open Eyes, Insert Knowledge

If we had the knowledge we could see the part of a comet's energy that is neutralized by the more powerful light of the sun. (Check out the Illustration – 4 again.)

Using the same logic, the effects of sun light on the comet's fuzzy material are the opposite of what they would be on Earthly materials. The intensity of the main body, of the comet, allows it to show up as a positive solid. The further from the comet, the fuzzy material gets the weaker and thinner it gets and it does not show up because the sun's light over powers and neutralizes its visual appearance.

The negative energy of the comet creates its own glow and the positive energy of the sun creates its own glow. The reaction of the Sun's energy is stronger as the comet gets closer to our solar system.

As the comet's material gets further from the main body of the comet its energy is weaker. Just as the energy from the Sun is weaker the further it gets from the Sun, the comet's energy gets weaker the further it is from the comet. The big difference here is that the energy from a comet's anti-matter is the opposite of the energy from our known matter. Our energy is hot, where as energy from anti-matter is cold, but it is still energy and it has extreme power.

The comet's weakened material does not show up in our sun's light. It only shows up in what we see as the tail or shadow. The area close to the comet has the strength to oppose the sunlight and show up as a positive substance. The further from the main body the anti-matter the weaker it is and the less it shows up. Behind the comet it shows up and appears as an opposite of an Earth's shadow. The cold energy, protected on the backside of a comet, is seen as a tail, but it is only a small part of the complete glow that encircles a comet.

The comet has an aura around it that remains with or without the Sun's influence. The only part of the aura that is visible is what we see as the "tail" or the part that is not influenced by the Sun.

A Comet's Place

Just as the electron circles the protons and neutrons of a molecule, the comets circle our solar system. Just as an electron affects a molecule so does the comet affect the solar system. The comet is actually an anti-matter or negative energy. This would explain the reaction or visual image of what we have called the tail.

The substance of a comet is similar to a magnet. As it flies through space it draws space junk or rocks called meteors, after it, long after it has disappeared into space. It also pulls energy to the surface of planets, causing quakes, volcanic eruptions and storms.

Someday we will see that this same magnetic substance, (anti-matter) causes the sub-planet materials in our Earth to surface causing volcanoes, earthquakes and El Ninos. This power, when realized, will be used to expand our life as we know it.

Other Visions

Cyle Lainson can see where a glancing blow, to the Earth's atmosphere, by a major comet caused major changes in the location of the continents. This very large comet is now known as Pluto. (See Illustration - 3)

This being the case then when Atlantis, later to be known as Antarctica, would have settled into its present location with the assistance of the comet's drawing power. The continent South America, once connected to the continent of Africa, with Atlantis at its side, would have separated at this time and moved to its present location of Antarctica.

Africa and South America were connected where the east tip of Brazil was located at the coastal area of Nigeria and Cameroon. The tip of South America would have fit like a puzzle into an Antarctic inlet, now hundreds of miles to south and east. The comet's drawing power combined with the centrifugal force of a rotating Earth resulted in major relocation of the Earth's continents.

The small bands of survivors of the separation would have been the new life on the new continents. The separation of the people and various plant lives, would explain the different physical characteristics, languages and diseases created on the different continents and the immunities due to the different vegetables, herbs and diets of the separated peoples. Isaiah 24:1 - Distorts its surface And scatters abroad its inhabitants.

To take this prophetic vision a step further: Visualize the Earth rotating between 45 and 60 degrees, north to south. As the continents shifted and Antarctica settled, after rotating 45 to 60 degrees, and Atlantis hydroplaning to its present location, you should be able to visualize a great flood and torrential rain. (Like 40 days and nights.)

Like I said, there would have been torrential rains and tidal waves. These catastrophic events would have covered most of the landmasses. Atmospheric phenomena's would have been extremely radical. A major rain for 40 days and nights, as experienced by Noah, would have helped cover the rest of the landmasses in the story. (Genesis - Chapters 5 – 10) The puzzle pieces are fitting together.

Biblical Prophecies Fulfilled

Putting facts together, I see that when the continents finished shifting, as a result of the comet's massive magnet pull/push then a separation of peoples would have been complete. At this point in time the allegory of the Tower of Babel would have been fulfilled also and we for the first time can see it as feasible and practical. (Gen. 11:4-9) Regardless of how it is explained, it's all part of God's plan.

The tidal waves and floods caused, by the up heavel of the oceans and massive rains caused by the atmospheric changes, would have eliminated most of the Earth's population. What was left of the populous would have scattered and traveled to find a new life. Small groups would have formed families. The new families would have developed new forms of communication or languages and all knowledge, which we wonder about, would have been lost.

If mankind is really millions of years old, as shown by carbon dating, then why is it that only the last 6,000 years been historic?

Since the DNA or genetics of mankind hasn't changed, what happened to the intelligence of the prehistoric man? For man to have survived millions of years he had to have developed mentally from the start. He didn't just wonder around in mass ignorance. Therefore something had to cover up the history of early man.

I say silt, from the flood, covered up a lot of history. Archeologists in North Africa are digging up history daily. Dust is another cover-up. Most of mankind lives/lived next to creeks and rivers, the place silt settles. Recorded history would have been covered up; builders, scientist, teachers, etc. would be lost.

The average man, without recording devices, trying to survive in a new world, would have had to start over. After a few generations most of memories of the old ways would be lost. The small bits of memory, stored in man's DNA, would have to be redeveloped. It's just deja vu, all over again. The old saying, "there is nothing new under the sun," is very true. When we think we have a new idea, it's just the bits and pieces of memory stored in our DNA, from a hundred thousand years back.

Again I say small bands of survivors of the separation would have been the new life on the new continents. The separation of the people and various plant lives, would explain the different physical characteristics, cultures, languages and diseases created on the different continents; also, the different immunities due to the different vegetables, herbs and diets of the separated peoples.

The knowledge lost, under Antarctica's ice and under silt and dust, was the same knowledge that built the pyramids in Egypt and Central America. Very little knowledge, that we call mysteries, escaped the up Earth's upheaval and floods.

The puzzle pieces are fitting together. The continent of India could have at this time pushed up into Asia, forming the massive mountain range we call the Himalayan Mountains.

Isaiah 24:1-21 is looking very real now. "The people were warned." Explaining the Comet Pluto and the shifting or rotation of the Earth is easy, when the scriptures verify everything. As follows:

Isaiah 24:1 - Behold, the LORD makes the earth empty and makes it waste,

1 - Distorts its surface and scatters abroad its inhabitants. (Tower of Babel). (After all, the names of the pyramids in Mexico mean, "the place where gods are made.")

13 - The land shall be entirely emptied and utterly plundered, For the LORD has spoken this word. When it shall be thus in the midst of the land among the people, It shall be like the shaking of an olive tree, Like the gleaning of grapes when the vintage is done.

18 - And it shall be that he who flees from the noise of the fear shall fall into the pit, And he who comes up from the midst of the pit Shall be caught in the earth are shaken.

19 - The earth is violently broken, The earth is split open, The earth is shaken exceedingly.

20 - The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, And shall totter like a hut; Its transgression shall be heavy upon it, And it will fall, and not rise again.

(Pluto's effects on the Earth.)

21 - It shall come to pass in that day, That the LORD will punish on high the host of exalted ones, And on the earth the kings of the earth.

While the Scriptures explain our deepest darkest secrets, answers to questions hidden from the dawn of our time are revealed, like:

Why and how the dinosaurs existed along with humans?

How they disappeared?

Why carbon dating is not completely accurate?

Why haven't the pieces fit together?

Was there really an Atlantis?

Why are the pyramids in Mexico and Egypt so similar?

While we're at it, why do crazy things happen in the Bermuda triangle?

Could it be that a small comet hit Earth in the Bermuda Triangle, thousands if not millions of years ago? The anti-matter would send compasses in a quandary.

Possible changes might only happen when space objects, like the sun or certain planets or others that have been hit by comets, pull on the power of the imbedded comet and Earthly vessels get in between them. Of course our Earthly measuring devises won't pick up the comet's activities. However a simple compass will let us know it is there, when its powers are activated. (Then again is comet Pluto the influence?)

As for now, because of the continent rearrangements, it would appear that Darwin could be half-right in that animals do evolve. The difference and truth, of it all, is that they only evolve within their own species.

Just as the big bang theory is half-right. God said, "Let there be . . ." and BANG – the universe came into existence. What He says happens.

The end of time that we hear about or envision is actually a new beginning of time for us. A big question that I now ask is, How many times has this been repeated?

The scriptures say, once.

1. The high-speed passing, with the magnetic draw, of the Comet Pluto would be the reason for the Earth to have rotated 90 degrees, north to south.
2. Antarctica would have rotated approximately 45 degrees, after breaking off from the now south tip of South America and hydroplaning to present location.
3. Add to this the shifting weight of continent Antarctica, once known as Atlantis, as it turns and hydroplanes to its present location, and the world is changed forever.
4. Africa and South America are now separated, from connection points at the east tip of Brazil and Africa, at Nigeria.
5. "Glacier" period would have began at this time.
6. Huge tidal waves and torrential rains, possibly the Noah's ark variety, would have caused most life forms to die out, history erased.
7. With the new arrangement of the continents and the dying off of most life forms, the story of the Tower of Babel if completed.
8. Afterwards Pluto zoomed off into space, redeveloping a slighter comet's orbit. With its magnetic fields now weakened, it is seen as a small planet.
9. Proof would be at the bottom of the ice.
